We look forward to seeing you on campus!

My internship experience was at the University of Hawaii's Shidler College of Business, External relations office. The work that is performed here varies from news articles to business events. Initially I really never thought an educational institution was a place to learn and experience graphic design but working here has definitely changed my perception. As a business needs to brand and sell its self so does a college. There are a lot more design restrictions than I ever imagined from the specific color and font to even how to write the time on an invitation.

I have enjoyed the overall experience because I had a supervisor who was not only a great designer but also a great teacher. I thought this internship was a great starting point because I wasn't thrown into an intimidating design firm but got enough of a taste to make it a great learning experience. I would definitely recommend this internship to anyone interested in design but is not really sure if they are confident enough to work at a design firm.

EXPERIENCE

MY FAVORITE

I was the invitation creator at my office. I can't even count how many I designed but I have also come to really enjoy the art of the invite. I also got to work on a couple of flyers and displays. I also produced calendars and signs for the building. I also learned to print on various papers and different printers. I enjoyed the work I did; therefore I am personally satisfied with the work I produced. But if I could change something in my personal work, I would have been less restricted with my creativity.

This was my first internship experience so I think my biggest strength was my excitement to be doing something new and willingness to learn and try everything. This was also my weakness. I wanted to try everything so sometimes I finished projects quickly but not to my best ability. I wasn't as thorough as I should have been. I am learning to be more detail oriented and observant. Before this experience I was afraid of indesign and now I am really comfortable with it. I also had a couple of chances to work with a group and I found it very gratifying to share ideas and learn from others.
