4. Write pinyin to fill in the blank, based on your own situation. Be sure to include tone marks whenever you write pinyin.

Hotel Receptionist: Nín yào dānrén fángjiān háishì shuāngrén fángjian?

You: _____

5. Write pinyin to fill in the blank, based on your own situation. Be sure to include tone marks whenever you write pinyin.

Hotel Receptionist: Nǐ hǎo, néng bù néng kàn yīxià nín de shēnfènzhèng?

You: _____

6. Take a look at the room rates for hotel rooms provided in the “Reading” section in lesson 6. Given the information and the vocabulary listed there, use pinyin to write a sample dialogue between you and a hotel receptionist. First, state what kind of room you want. The receptionist will then ask how long you plan to stay. After hearing your response, the receptionist will finish by stating the total price for your stay. Be sure to include tone marks whenever you write pinyin.

You: _____

Receptionist: _____

You: _____

Receptionist: _____

7. Write a short diary entry about a hotel or other short-term accommodation you stayed at in the past few years. Mention where you stayed, what type of room it was, how long you stayed, and what aspects of the room you especially liked or disliked. Write about four or five sentences.

You must write Chinese characters for your response. Do not write pinyin. Be sure to include correct Chinese punctuation marks. You may use Google Translate to help prepare your response, if using vocabulary from beyond our lesson texts.
