University Band

KAPOLEI --- The University of Hawai‘i – West O‘ahu University Band welcomes new members as the band continues its second year at the University. Chadwick Kamei, Pearl City High School director of bands, and leader of the award-winning Pearl City High School “Charger” Marching Band, will teach the UH West O‘ahu University Band (MUS 419) course. Eligible band members include:

- UHWO students, faculty, staff, and community members with band experience,
- O‘ahu high school band junior or senior students participating in the Department of Education Running Start program that offers simultaneous high school and college credit; or Early Admission program that offers college credit only and
- Hawai‘i State Department of Education teachers taking MUS 419 for teacher reclassification credit.

All band members will receive UH West O‘ahu course credit for University Band MUS 419. Instruction begins Jan. 14 and will take place in the Pearl City High School band room on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. High school students interested in joining the UH West O‘ahu band should speak with their college counselor about applying for the Running Start or Early Admission program. All interested participants should contact Pearl City High School Director of Bands Chadwick Kamei at ckamei@hawaii.edu to schedule an audition.

“Especially in this new year, joining the band or chorus is a great way to meet new friends and expand your community,” said UH West O‘ahu Assistant Professor of Music, Dr. Jon Magnussen. “Although music-making has long been associated with improved mental focus and lower levels of stress, most people simply enjoy it because it feeds the soul as much as it feeds the intellect.”

University Chorus

The UH West O‘ahu University Chorus (MUS 114), under the direction of conductor Karol Nowicki, welcomes new members for its spring 2015 season. Rehearsals begin on Tuesday, Jan. 13, with classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. - 12:20 p.m. in Room C225 at UH West O‘ahu. The University Chorus welcomes community musicians in addition to UH
West O'ahu students, faculty and staff. Members will spend the term singing choral literature from the Renaissance to the present, improving vocal technique, musicianship, and listening and ensemble skills. The ability to read music is not required.

Highlights of the University Chorus year include the all-collegiate “E Himeni Kākou” spring choral festival, when more than 300 singers from campuses all over the island unite to sing for and with each other. For more information, contact UHWO Assistant Professor of Music, Dr. Jon Magnussen at jonmagnu@hawaii.edu.
